Actual Results

As indicated in the project development section, an application, map and brochure were made available and disseminated throughout the County. The process for well sealing under this grant was modified to be more cost effective and efficient, so it is the same for both the 50% and 100% program. Due to low application numbers in 2012, the ranking sheet was not needed.

The process is as follows: Once an application is accepted, County staff reviews the application, and contacts the applicant to conduct a site visit of the well to confirm participation in the program, and eligibility for either the 50% or 100% cost share option. After a contract is in place with the well owner, the well owner must obtain two bids from licensed well contractors, and proceed with the lower cost option. Once the well has been sealed, the well owner submits proof of payment to the County, and is then reimbursed.

Two wells were sealed under the 100% cost share program in 2012, funded by this grant. The first, included here, was in Lakeland, MN, in an area of known contamination.

Actual Results	In the Spring of 2012, staff developed materials for the 100% cost share program. The application combined the County's existing 50% cost share program with the full cost reimbursement option now available through CWF funds. Staff developed a brochure advertising the program, including a map of who was eligible, why people should seal their wells, and how to get an application. This brochure, application, and map are all displayed on the Washington County website. Staff reached out to several public water suppliers (PWS). Once the application and other materials were finished, this information was disseminated to PWSs in the County. Process is as follows: County staff reviewed application, contacted applicant to conduct a site visit of the well to confirm participation in the program, and eligibility for either the 50% or 100% cost share option. After a contract was in place with, the well owner obtained two bids from licensed well contractors, and proceeded with the lower cost option. Once the well was sealed, the well owner submits proof of payment to the County, and is then reimbursed. New staff came to the County in the fall 2012, and took over administration of the grant and the well sealing program. Staff re-established contact with many of the same PWS in the County, to determine interest and next steps. Staff created a more detailed outreach plan, to be implemented in 2013, including meeting with PWSs to determine property owners that might receive targeted advertisement of the program, asking cities/townships to post the well sealing opportunity in their quarterly newsletters sent to residents, and working through watershed management organizations (WMOs) and the East Metro Water Resources Education Program (EMWREP) in Washington County to widely disseminate information on the program. Implementation of the well sealing program continued in 2013. As of December 31, 2013 20 wells have been sealed under this grant.
